The plugin folder contains a number of files you can use to customize your interface. They are located inside the Adobe Fireworks folder. The same folder contains the Adobe Photoshop folder, where you should find the Adobe Photoshop serial number. You will need to paste this number into a web browser, and then open Adobe Photoshop. If you're using a Mac, the process is similar, but it is a bit more complicated. Navigate to the Adobe Fireworks folder, the folder will contain a file that looks like this: /Applications/Adobe Fireworks CS5.5/Contents/Resources/Adobe Photoshop CS5.5/. This is Adobe Photoshop Serial Number. Paste this number into a web browser, and then open Adobe Photoshop.

Calendars and similar documents can be automatically synced in all versions of Photoshop. Automatic sync allows the version of the document that's saved to your camera, phone, or cloud to match any changes you make by resaving. Existing versions can be accessed and organized into Collections. Adobe Photoshop rocks for an image editor. So why haven't we given it five stars?
