the Invention The present invention relates to a coupling assembly, and more particularly to a coupling assembly used to transmit a large power such as a high power and a high-frequency power.

2. Description of the Related Art

Generally, a coupling assembly is used to transmit a power in the form of a signal having a predetermined frequency range. The coupling assembly allows a transmitting circuit to efficiently transmit a high frequency signal and a large power thereto. Particularly, a transmission line that is widely used to transmit a large power is a cable having an inner conductor and an outer conductor. The outer conductor of the cable is an outer sheath and each of the inner conductor and the outer conductor is protected by an insulation layer. The inner conductor is electrically connected to the transmitting circuit, while the outer conductor is connected to the outer sheath. When a large power is transmitted in the form of a signal through the transmission line, the insulation layer of the outer conductor is damaged. Thus, a coupling assembly that can transmit a large power and is used to protect the inner conductor and the outer conductor is needed. There are a variety of coupling assemblies that are used to transmit a power in a form of a signal and that is necessary for
